

Strategy Types

Mean reversion: Mean reversion strategies rely on the theory that prices usually move back towards their mean.

Momentum: Momentum strategies rely on the theory that there are continuations in trends and a certain force of motion in a moving body that can keep pushing a price away from its mean.
